RABBI'S COLUMN

Is Distracted Living Unholy Living?

How many of us feel obligated to multitask in our work lives or in our personal lives (or both)? I know that I do.

In fact, as the father of young twin (very active) boys, the greatest thing that I crave is contemplative connection. I want to spend personal, meaningful time with my sons and/or with my wife, but what I actually crave, what my spirit is drawn to, is the ability to make that connection without chaos. The way I imagine living a "holy life" involves deliberate choices that almost seem as if they are being made in slow motion and without the distractions and sound. And, they involve being aware of who I am and where I am in the universe.

Lately, I have been reminiscing about my youth when cousins or aunts and uncles, or just my immediate family, would gather at the table to play bridge or other card games and have tea and just talk. Invariably, there would be humor interwoven into more serious topics. I remember, as nearly always the youngest in the room, how much I enjoyed learning about life from those around the table. I'm sure I am not alone in feeling that we have lost our way because we view such things as luxuries and wastes of time. How sad.

Can we appreciate fully such experiences if we are checking our smart phones and worrying about some task that we have yet to complete? I think not. Our minds are made to wander and make connections; when constrained, or overwhelmed, they become limited. Living in the moment often involves experiencing many things at once and allowing the mind to engage with them while focusing on one or two things. I believe that this is how "inspiration" finds us and where we may find holiness. After all, holiness can be understood as an elevated connection between ourselves and our reality; sin, therefore, is anything that blocks that connection.

BREAK-THE-FAST

Be sure to make reservations now to attend Break-the-Fast, which will be held Wednesday, September 23 at 7:45 pm. The meal will be served in the Brigantine Community Center, 265 42nd Street. The cost is $15 per person. Deadline to RSVP is September 16. MAKE YOUR RESERVATIONS TODAY!

The Prez Sez

I want to thank you for choosing me to be president of Temple Beth Shalom. I am humbled by the honor and I hope I can live up to the expectations of the demands of the office. As I said when elected, "I promise to work as hard as Lill Shender, but not as long." When you see the Shenders during Yom Tov, please, thank them for twelve years of a labor of love. I am pleased that Lill has agreed to remain as treasurer and that Ron will continue to lead the House Committee.

In August we had a wonderful Scholar's Weekend. For that we owe a great deal of thanks to Drs. Frank and Sarah Kern for their generous sponsorship; to Rabbi Fox for the extra hours spent designing and coordinating the various events and to Rabbi Jonathan Kligler for his vivacity, Woodstock-ness and energy conducting the events from folk singing to Torah study.

As I think about the weekend I remember the lively Friday night service with the guitar chords leading us to some new melodies; I think about the two rabbis conducting a warm and reflective Shabbat service with Sarah's participation followed by a typically delicious Shender catered lunch; I was inspired and edified by Rabbi Kligler's Sunday Torah lesson that showed how the Torah can guide us through the convoluted path of life.

Mostly, however I think about Saturday night at the Apters'. Saturday night we had a pot luck supper with a line-up of food that would have competed with any casino restaurant. That, surprisingly, was not the highlight of the night. The schedule provided an hour of "schmoozing" where we had an opportunity to just talk with and enjoy each other. That to me was the apex of the evening. We have a wonderfully, congenial congregation. The opportunity to just get to spend time with each other was wonderful. Our congregation is quite diverse, but the one common element seems to be that the group is worth getting to know.

The evening ended with some group singing and a joyous Havdalah service to say goodbye to the Sabbath.

I hope we can have more events where we can all get to know each other a little better, but until we do, I have a suggestion. Come to services and arrive fifteen minutes early and stay fifteen minutes after services. Spend the extra time to get to know each other. I predict you will like what you find.

I look forward to seeing you on Yom Tov. If the opportunity arises, please, say hello. If not then, I hope to see you at the Break-The-Fast.

L'Shanah Tova
Jack

Once, while a student at the Pardes Institute in Jerusalem, I was studying a section of Talmud with my hevruta partner that contained a number of descriptions of nature. In readjusting myself in my chair, I found myself a witness to a truly magnificent sunset, one that evoked blessings from my lips. As I rose to do so, my teacher took it upon himself to ask me why I was allowing myself to be distracted from the holy work of learning Torah (in the more general sense). He explained that there is a passage in the Talmud that forbids someone from being distracted from prayer or religious study. I countered that my distraction — that my connection with the revealed holiness in the world — was holy work, as well.

Sin, or better yet, transgression, isn't often what we think it is . . . it is acting at cross purposes with being mindful, with taking in all of what is around us, and so we allow ourselves to be detached from what is true in life.

This year, let us voice the Al Cheyt of the "empty calories" of social media and, instead, commit ourselves to the nourishment of cultivating healthy, real connections with each other. Let's start with a cup of tea and a conversation.

To set the right mood, I and my family wish each of you, L'Shana Tovah U'Metukah — a wonderful and sweet year and beyond to you and yours!

Rabbi Gerald R. Fox

New Temple Beth Shalom Board

Simply Shirley . . .

Welcome to all of my readers.

I would like to begin by saying "Hats Off" to the TBS Bingo Team who provided a community service, which the children loved. Truly wonderful to open our home to the community and make them feel so welcome. Good Job. You succeeded.

The TBS book club met on Monday, July 27 at the Community Center to discuss the book, "The Lone Survivor." It was a most interesting discussion since in my opinion it is a most difficult book.

As the title states it is written about the Lone Survivor and is the eyewitness account of operation Redwing and the lost heroes of Seal Team 10.

Upon the recommendation of Burton Schwartz, we read "The Nightingale" for our August book club. We met at the Community Center on August 31 and it was hosted by Lilyan Cralle. As I know this will reach you well after our meeting just a few words about the book. "In love we find out who we want to be. In war we find out who we are." Definitely a worthwhile book to read.

Once decided I will see you all are informed as to the next TBS book club date.

Due to the fact that Sid and I were in Oregon to attend our Nephew's wedding, we missed the TBS Scholar's Weekend, which we heard was just wonderful. Heard that Carl and Beth Apter hosted a lovely event at their home. Truly sorry we missed this one and look forward to the next one.

Please contact Shirley at 609-266-8599 or ssmorgan3@verizon.net should you be interested in being added to our book club list.

We welcome suggestions regarding any good read you may have and thank you in advance.

*Happy Reading,
Simply Shirley*

An Open Letter of Thanks to Lill Shender

Dear Lill:

Temple Beth Shalom and its members want to thank you for your twelve years as president and "acting" president. In 2003 when you were elected to a two year term, we are positive, that you had no idea what a commitment you had just made.

Specifically we want to thank you for your leadership, your guidance, your budgetary constraint, your check signing, your cooking, your catering, your supply buying, your newsletter editing, your article writing, your Temple openings, your Temple closings, your late hours, your early meetings, your coordination with Federation, your phone calls to and from the Rabbi, your training of new board members, your hours dealing with the ritual committee, your cleaning when the cleaning crew let us down, your fundraising, your real estate dealings, your Sukkah decorating, your Shabbat Aliyah assignments, your liaison with the Conservative movement, your bagel buying, your vision and your great sense of humor. Most of all we want to thank you for your devotion to and your love of our "Shul by the Sea."

We know that most of us do not have any idea how much time and energy you have expended daily, weekly, monthly and yearly to keep the doors open and the lights on. We may not know, but we appreciate it all.

We also want to thank Ron. We know that he too made many sacrifices, not only as an officer but also as the first mate. He was always there when he was needed the most.

We understand that you will continue as treasurer and that Ron will be on the board as our House Committee chairman. Therefore, we also thank both of you for your continuing service. There is no doubt that the new board will need and benefit from your experience.

We may not have expressed it enough, or at all, but you are appreciated. Without you and Ron it is hard to conceive what condition we would have found ourselves in at this time.

We thank you, we love you and we DO cherish all that you have done for us.
Thank you, thank you, and thank you.

Your Appreciative Congregation

Temple Beth Shalom Changes President

Outgoing president Lill Shender and newly elected president Jack Lieberman celebrate a light moment during Temple Beth Shalom Scholar's Weekend.

The weekend featured four events with guest Rabbi, Jonathan Kligler, and Temple Beth Shalom Rabbi Gerald Fox presiding.

The festivities began Friday night with an upbeat Sabbath service accompanied by Rabbi Kligler's guitar. The Woodstock New York rabbi was greeted with great enthusiasm.

Saturday morning the two rabbis conducted a warm and reflective service that was followed by a luncheon.

Saturday evening a large cross-section of the congregation gathered at the home of Beth and Carl Apter for an evening of dining, conversation and a lively sing-along.

On Sunday, after a congregation meeting, the weekend concluded with a group discussion focusing on how the Torah can provide the guidelines and directions for living an ethical and fulfilling life.

The board expressed thanks to the weekend sponsors, Drs. Frank and Sarah Kern, and to the rabbis for their leadership.

Children's BINGO

Believe it or not, many residents in Brigantine know Temple Beth Shalom for the place that has a bazaar, the temple that sponsors the kids' BINGO and our participation in the Interfaith Service.

The children's BINGO is the one that engenders tremendous good will within the community. This year BINGO ran for seven weeks with an attendance of 40 to 50 participants at each session. Many of those players were accompanied by at least one parent, many of whom had never been in a synagogue before. If their first impression of our Temple is that it is a friendly, community-oriented institution, then we have done well.

The BINGO certainly would not have been possible without our corps of volunteers. This year the team was led by Burt Schwartz as caller and Howard Abber as monitor. Burt's career as a pediatrician enabled him to have great rapport with his new constituency. Other regular volunteers included Sid Morgan, Lill and Ron Shender, Jackie Fabel, Judy Schwartz, Barry Cogan, Terry Horowitz, Beth Apter and Jack Lieberman.

TBS provides refreshments and many prizes, but a group of local merchants guarantee the success of the game by generously providing gift certificates and supplementary prizes. That group, this year, included: Andre's Italian Restaurant, Aunt B's Ice Cream, Bella Luna, Brigantine Beach Gift Shop, Brigantine Beachwear, Goochie Brothers, Judie Bramnick, Macedonian Grill, Mad Dog Morgans, Richman's Ice Cream & Burger Bar, Rita's Water Ice, Root Beer Barrel, Smile Factory, St. George's Pub, Studio 1012 and Surf Sundries.

When you visit these merchants, please, take the time to thank them for their support. It is important that our supporters know that we appreciate their donations and that we frequent their establishments.

HAIL! AND FAREWELL!

To the 12 year term as your President.....

It was quite a ride. I would now like to express my love and appreciation to all of the many who served throughout the years. We worked through happy times and sad times and I must say we did a pretty damn good job.

As the baton is passed to Jack and his new administration, I wish they have the same support and loyalty that was given to me. Make it so!

As we go from “strength to strength,” I am sure we will all pitch in and back the new administration to the hilt.

Report of Recent Community Forums

Some Temple Beth Shalom members involved in Superstorm Sandy recovery recently participated in small group forums in Brigantine. They were sponsored by the Mental Health Association as well as VOICES of September 11, founded by the mother of a young man killed in the 9/11 attacks. From their website: VOICES helps families heal after tragedy, a vital mission that began after 9/11. Today, the organization continues to address the long-term needs of those impacted by 9/11, while helping communities prepare for, respond to, and recover from other acts of mass violence and disasters.

The two organizations are conducting a project that examines and improves community resiliency after disaster. Brigantine was chosen as a town that demonstrated great cohesiveness and collaboration in their recovery efforts.

I attended a session with Gloria and Henry Jacoby, as well as Reverend John Scotland and other members of BrigStrong. It was conducted by the VOICES founder, who shared her poignant story, as we shared our experiences after the storm.

The findings are pending, and we’ll inform you as we hear.
